Application Guidelines

For Self-Supported International Students Applying to the Integrated Science Program, Undergraduate Program

Hokkaido University

Admission Policy

Hokkaido University is one of the leading research-intensive universities in Japan with departments ranging from the sciences to the humanities. It was established in 1876 as the Sapporo Agricultural College. It is one of Japan's prestigious seven "former Imperial Universities" and today is a leading national university. During its long history, Hokkaido University has cultivated academic autonomy and freedom based on four basic philosophies relating to education and research: Frontier Spirit, Global Perspectives, All-round Education, and Practical Learning.

Guided by these philosophies, the university's mission is to be a place where knowledge is created, disseminated, and applied in the new century, thereby contributing to the development of human welfare, science, culture, and society through education and research.

The university strives to offer undergraduate education that teaches students to participate in society as global citizens, to acquire the academic and communication skills that will give them a solid foundation in their professional lives, and to study their fields of expertise from a broad academic perspective. The university aims to make its graduates capable of exercising sound judgment and leadership as exemplary citizens possessing high-quality and internationally-recognized academic credentials. In addition, the university nurtures students so that they may take leading roles as professionals in their fields and actively promote academic creativity.

Hokkaido University has built upon this tradition and its history since it was founded and recruits talented students from throughout Japan and the rest of the world. We use an advanced selection system to seek out students who have the academic ability needed to pursue an undergraduate education, such as basic knowledge, basic skills, mathematical ability, linguistic ability, depth of understanding, and comprehension skills. We strive to recruit students who have the qualities needed to pursue studies at the university level and beyond, such as problem-solving skills, creativity, a sense of ethics, flexible thinking, communication ability, the ability to think theoretically, leadership skills, integrity, and the desire to learn.

Integrated Science Program Admission Policy

Expected Proficiency and Skill Level before Enrollment

The Integrated Science Program (ISP) offers integrated courses in social sciences and natural sciences. Applicants are expected to have broad knowledge in subjects offered in secondary education such as language and literature, English language, mathematics, and social sciences. In the ISP, an early graduation system allows students to graduate in three years and six months, and all students study mathematics, physics, chemistry, and biology at the post-secondary level in the first six months on the program. Therefore, prospective students are expected to have acquired basic knowledge in physics, chemistry, and biology in addition to mathematics before completing their secondary education.

Purpose of Developing Human Resources

In the era of Society 5.0, individuals who create value in academic research and in society are much sought after. Not just producing ideas, forming organizations or groups to turn those creative ideas into reality is equally important. We aim to nurture individuals who contribute to value creation in society.

In our General Education Courses, which offer integrated humanities and sciences courses, students learn how to work on problems in society with no suitable solutions. They also learn business skills necessary for value creation in the generic skills courses. Through research in each of the natural science disciplines, we cultivate creativity as well as critical skills and capabilities necessary for a professional in academic or applied research.

Selection Policy

In the first Stage Selection, knowledge and comprehension in subjects offered in secondary education are reviewed through grades in secondary school, standardized test scores and a letter of recommendation.

In the second Stage Selection, thinking and self-expression skills, communication skills in English, initiative as well as basic knowledge and comprehension in mathematics and natural sciences are reviewed through an interview.
